Unfurl the Red and Yellow

A three-inch grin beats an inch of frown, and a bit of fun won't hurt the best of us. To be sure there are duties to be performed; perhaps you have clothes to buy, and of course we'll be on hand to supply you. But the task will be an easy one. Assortments are in the full flush of fall perfection. Dry goods want exist but to be supplied in the most perfect manner. Variety is great and prices are alluringly little.

If the Sky Weeps

Three splendid bargain values here for those in need of shower protection—worthy umbrellas a full quarter under regular prices.
$1.50 instead of $2.00 Women's Umbrellas, of silk serge, black, blue, green or red with plain or trimmed princess handles, tassels and matched case.
At the same price, Men's Umbrellas of the same material in black; close-rolling handsome shower sticks that are worth $2.00 of anybody's money.
At 50c a lot of Children's 26-inch School Umbrellas with natural wood and pretty Dresden handles. They are large enough for big folks if economy counts for more than style.

WILL GO TO SOUTH BEND.

Indianapolis People Will Attend the Charities' Convention.

A number of Indianapolis people will leave this morning to attend the state conference of charities at South Bend this week. In the Indianapolis party will be Amos W. Butler, secretary of the State Board of Charities; John R. Elder, Prof. D. C. Brown, Dr. Mary A. Spink and Mrs. Margaret Pease, members of the State Board of Charities; Professor Johnson, superintendent of the Deaf and Dumb Institute; George S. Wilson, superintendent of the Blind Institute; Dr. George F. Ederharter, of the Central Insane Hospital; Miss Emma R. Hays, superintendent of the Indiana Industrial School for Girls and Women's Prison; Mrs. John B. Elam and Mrs. Emma Minton, of the board of control of the Indiana Women's Prison; Mrs. John A. Bradshaw, president of the Indianapolis Orphan's Home; Henry Huse, of the German Protestant Orphan's Asylum, and Miss Julia Goodheart, of the Board of Children's Guardians.

AN EARLY ADJOURNMENT.

Carnival Spirit Prevailed in Central Labor Union Hall.

The carnival spirit was too predominant in Central Labor Union last night for much of a meeting to be held and a motion to adjourn was made after a half hour's session. The carpenters and brewery workers both turned in grievances for the grievance committee to investigate. Organizer John Blue reported that he had received a charter for the hominy workers of the Bates Hominy mills, whom he recently organized, but that members of the new union had been disgraced until there were not enough to hold the charter. He said he had twelve names when the charter was applied for, but the company had discharged seven for belonging to the union. He also said the men were kept from joining the union upon the representation that the mills would close if a union was organized. An objection was made to the report on the ground that it should have been written and not presented in an oral way. While this argument was on a motion to adjourn was made and the meeting adjourned. Organizer Blue will likely be taken up by the State Federation of Labor, as that body usually handles all labor litigation.

CITY NEWS ITEMS.

The funeral of Aaron Clem, one of the pioneers of Marion County, will be held from his late residence, 20 East Glen street, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. He had been in the grocery business in this city for fifty-two years.

James Crank, a thirteen-year-old boy living at 1621 Nevada street, fell from a wall today in a state of unconsciousness and was severely injured yesterday morning. Dr. Ball, who attended him, said his injuries were internal and might result fatally.

Alma Brown, twenty-two years old, living at 52 Spring street, was yesterday declared of unsound mind. It is said that at times when she became violent it required three men to hold her. She imagined that she was a snake. When she was eight years old she was frightened by a horse, and has since been subject to epileptic fits, and her mind was also affected.

The executive committee of the Union Surety Company met this afternoon in the company's offices in the J. F. W. building, to consider the second floor of the Stevenson building. The committee is composed of Hugh Dougherty, Bluffton, chairman, and John F. W. Johnson, of Indianapolis; J. M. L. Irwin, of Columbus, and Frank L. Powell, of Madison.

BANKERS GO TO MILWAUKEE.

Convention of American Bankers' Association There.

A number of local bankers went to Milwaukee last night to attend the convention of the American Bankers' Association, which opens in the Pabst Theater in that city this morning. Indianapolis is represented officially in the association by Otto N. Frenzel, who is vice president for the State, and by Samuel A. Morrison, a member of the executive council. The State is represented in the executive council by C. T. Lindsey, of South Bend.

Mr. Frenzel learned yesterday that he would be unable to go to Milwaukee, and delegated Mortimer Levering to read his report for Indianapolis before the meeting to-morrow morning. Mr. Levering will be detained here by the carnival until tonight, when he will leave for Milwaukee, returning Thursday, the closing day of the convention.

Special features of the convention will be "Assets Currency," discussion led by James H. Eckels, ex-controller of the currency; "An Informal Talk," by Lyman J. Gage, secretary of the Treasury, and the annual address of the President.

The officers of the American Bankers' Association are: President, Alvah Trowbridge, president Ninth National Bank, New York; first vice president, Myron T. Herrick, president Society for Savings, Cleveland; O. C. chairman executive council, Caldwell, N. Y.; second vice president, National Bank, Norfolk, Va.; treasurer, George M. Reynolds, cashier Continental National Bank, Chicago; secretary, James H. Branch, New York.

E. H. Nebeker at Statehouse.

E. H. Nebeker, president of the Indiana prison board, was at the Statehouse yesterday, but denied that his visit was on official business pertinent to the selection of a new warden for the Northern Prison. Mr. Nebeker called on State Auditor Hargis, and the two held a long conference. The prison board will meet this week, probably to-morrow afternoon, to take up the question of selecting a warden for the Northern Prison.

GROTESQUE PARADE

THE FIRST BIG EVENT OF A WEEK GIVEN OVER TO REVELRY.

The Downtown Streets Thronged by Thousands of People to Witness the Demonstration.

LAST YEAR'S PARADE ECLIPSED

BICYCLE PATROLMEN IN FRONT TO CLEAR THE WAY.

The Procession About One Hour Late in Starting—Some Rowdiness in the Streets.

Through streets that were congested with people as they have rarely been before in years, past buildings that threw out radiance of many hues and shades, amid the cheers and laughter of multitudes, marched the grotesque parade which enjoyed last night the honor of inaugurating the Indianapolis Fall Festival of 1901. The parade was, as might have been expected, later, larger and funnier than the one of a year ago, which was the first ever got up in this city. There were more novelties and the humor of the event was much more varied and enjoyable than last year.

The parade began forming about 7 o'clock but it was 8:30 before it moved from the corner of Vermont and Delaware streets, north on Delaware to Massachusetts avenue. The massing of spectators along the line of formation and continued solidly throughout the progress of the procession. Notwithstanding the fact that the patrol wagon and a squad of bicycle policemen went ahead to clear the way, and that a platoon of mounted patrolmen, extending the full width of the roadway, followed closely, the crowds were so dense that as quickly as they were pressed back to the sidewalk they broke forth again like mighty waves and literally flooded the streets. Many times the parade was compelled to halt a few moments on account of the crowd of spectators that blocked its passage.

Following the mounted police with their helmets, came Capt. William E. English, attended by his staff, all riding splendidly. E. R. H. Seguin, chairman of the grotesque parade committee, accompanied by his staff, rode closely after the grand marshal.

The grand marshal, Committee Seguin and the division commanders, with their respective staffs, were the only participants in the parade proper that were not grotesque costumes. Division Marshal Harry D. Tutwiler, attended by his staff, commanded the second division. The third division was directed by Division Marshal H. S. Beldensherz and staff. Division Marshal Saul Munter and staff rode at the head of the fourth division. The fifth division was headed by Marshal J. H. Webber.

PRINCIPAL FEATURES.

The principal features of the parade and those that provoked the heartiest outbursts of merriment from the multitudes of spectators along the line of march were the Indianapolis Military Band, members in various comical makeups, the bass drum hauled about on a pushcart guided by two He-brews; Anderson Elks' drill team in marvellous apparatus; Company C, 2nd Indiana, got up as fake policemen; royal band of his Imperial Majesty, the Great Skit-Hi, his Majesty seated on a throne, drawn by a wagon drawn by oxen; the "Four-Button Kids" (group of boys); "Remnants" (Taggart, Maguire and others); "House Support" (grotesque carrying lines of hose); "Undressed Kids" (boys in sweaters); "Full Line of Waste Goods" (Rubber Over Shoes, garden hose suspended above a pile of old shoes); "Hole-in-the-Wall" (men carrying hods); "When Knighthood Was in Fashion" (a knight in full armor, with a "Good Rocker" (man pounding rocks); "Full Line of Neckwear" (dot of hangers); "House of Representatives" (gestive framework); "Iron Beds" (a garbage wagon); "Big Stock of Comforts" (a mobile seated table); "Rubbish" (wagons with bottles); wagon labeled "We Make Our Own Milk"; man on top working which was from which a "Black and Tan" (African Skiva); a man dressed in grotesque costume performing ludicrous antics on a horizontal bar.

Humorous displays of an elaborate order were furnished by the Indianapolis Light Artillery, the Indianapolis 2nd Infantry, employees of E. R. H. Seguin, Noble Herd of Buffalo, Custody No. 2, the Endless Chain Association (sawing), the Pastime Athletic Club, Lynn Kendall Club, Shortridge High School cadets, the Haymakers (a fake circus), the Banty Roosters, the Forest Club, 52nd, Modern Woodmen of America, City Club, East End Club, L. Johnson Club, Berrington Brothers, the Boy Scouts, the Aquatic Club, John Arnold Club, Indianapolis Sausage Company, Laycock Manufacturing Company, employees of Porter Outfitting Company (comic circus with wild West show), the "Western Collopy"; Manufacturers' Shoe Company (comic circus with phantoms); Frank Patton Club, Allen Woodall Club, Gibson and Myers (comic automobile).

SINGLE ENTRIES.

The fifth division was brought up with a host of single entries. The participants in the parade seemed bent on getting all the fun out of the affair that was possible, and by the time the parade came to the point of breaking up the crowds went out of breath from the innumerable caps they had cut. The two teams of zouaves kept the throngs of spectators roaring with laughter by their comical evolutions, accompanied by fanfares from explosive canes.

A noticeable feature of the event was the prevalence of the carnival spirit. Last year it required almost a week to bring out the true spirit of festivity, but last night revelry reigned as naturally as if it had not been solemnel for a full twelve-month. Promoters of the carnival were disappointed that, after the warnings given during the past few days, there should have been demonstrations of rowdiness on the streets last night. Scenes that were entirely out of place in a civilized community were of frequent occurrence on all of the streets on the line of march of the grotesque parade, particularly Washington street, along which the thousands of ruffians marched throughout the passage of the parade, pushing and jostling violently against unoffending spectators, and in many instances these hoodlums so far forgot themselves as to accost and take hold of young women, jerking them about and otherwise comporting themselves like savages. It was not thought that the services of special police and detectives in plain clothes would be required on the opening night of the carnival, but the managers have seen their error and it will be repeated. To-night and the remainder of the week there will be plenty of officers without distinguishing marks mingling in the crowds down town, and wherever they hold of young women, jerking them about and bringing them to a realizing sense of his disgraceful conduct with a blow from a club. The fact that men carry clocks and fine art goods is the largest we have ever shown.

Prices made with every degree of fairness.

AWARD OF PRIZES.

"Imperial Order of Skit-Hi" Gets the First and Light Artillery Second.

The judges of the grotesque parade, David Wallace, Charles Maguire, J. A. Gorman, of New Orleans; Captain George C. Hale, of Kansas City fire department, and Harry W. Overman, of Chicago, reviewed the parade from the grand stand in front of the courthouse. After the parade the judges cast ballots in awarding the prizes, and the first five, which were the important cash prizes, were given by unanimous decision. This was done without one judge knowing how the other voted. The first prize, $300, was awarded to the "Imperial Order of Skit-Hi," a degree of the Y. M. I. A. to the North Indianapolis Light Artillery; the third, $50, to the employees of the People's Outfitting Company; the fourth, $25, to the Haymakers; the fifth, $20, to the North Indianapolis street car. The individual prizes were awarded as follows: First prize, $25, Letter Carriers' Association; second prize, $15, Endless Chain Association; third prize, $10, W. E. English Zouaves.

The donation prizes were as follows: First, an overcoat given by Bliss, Swain & Co. to the Hale fire-fighters with a derrick, thought to be from Hetherington & Berner's; second, $7 in goods given by the Pabst Brewing Company; to the Modern Woodmen drill team; third, 100 H. J. cigars, given by H. J. Craig, to the Kiehl-Hansen drum corps; fourth, chair, given by the New York Store, to the little baby in the carriage; fifth, toilet set, given by Burgeheim, the jeweler, to the zooloo; sixth, hat, given by the Original 22 hat store, to the fat boy in the fifth division; seventh, hat, given by G. A. Archibald, to the boy dressed as a woman with a basket hat and accompanied by a man with an umbrella; eighth, bronze piece, given by Valt & Son, to the hoochie-koochie dancer on the wagon; ninth, umbrella, given by the Danbury Hat Company, to the Indian on horseback; tenth, 100 John Drew cigars, given by Mayer Brothers, to the incubator boys; eleventh, shirt made to order, given by William Carter, to the drum major with striped pants and made up as a dude; twelfth, five-pound box of candy, given by J. H. Craig, to the young lady dressed as a boy who walked in the fifth division; thirteenth, cane, given by R. A. Miller, to the policeman arresting two pretended drunken men.

The winners of the prizes can only be designated by their descriptions, as there was no way of getting their names. The winners will report at the office of E. R. H. Seguin in the When building after 3 o'clock this morning and receive tickets which will be honored by the carnival committee as forms applying for tickets must undergo a form of identification before they will be awarded prizes.

WOMAN RUN OVER.

John Patterson, Driver of the Team.

Under Arrest.

John Patterson, a driver, was arrested last night about 11:30 o'clock by Patrolman Irish and charged with assault and battery. He was driving a team hitched to a wagon filled with children and drove it over Mrs. Laidley, of 3825 Barth avenue, who was knocked down by his horses at Washington and Pennsylvania streets. She was taken to her home by Dr. H. H. H. City Dispensary, who said her right leg was broken. It was also thought she had suffered internal injuries which might prove fatal. She is sixty-five years of age.

Fire in Schaub Flats.

"Spontaneous combustion" caused a $200 fire in the Schaub flats at 11 o'clock last night. The janitor had placed a can of hard oil with some rags and waste in a hall closet on the third floor, which caused the combustion. The fire did not get out of the closet into the adjoining apartments but made its way into the garret. Water seeped through into the hallway from the roof and into some of the apartments, but did little damage, the loss being confined to the roof structure.

The Kindergarten Boxes.

The report of the officers having in charge the collection for the Indianapolis Free Kindergarten Society, shows donations of nearly $300, with several collectors who have yet to report. Two hundred and forty of the 300 boxes sent out for collection have been emptied and the average was about $5.50 to each box.

Recovered Part of Money.

Detectives Dugan and McGuff yesterday arrested Frank Baxter on a charge of grand larceny. A Mr. Williams, of Westfield, complained that Baxter had taken $52 from his pocketbook. The detectives recovered $41 of the money.
